PEACE OR WAR.

Jules Favre's Report of His Negotiations With Bismarck — His Conclusions — Prussia Determined Upon Conquest — A Move from Berlin — What France Offers or Russia, England, Belgium, Turkey and Austria the Victims.

TOURS, Sept. 27.—JULES FAVRE today made an official report to the Government here of his mission to the Prussian headquarters in behalf of peace. He says a great many different solutions of the difficulties had been proposed and rejected, and he determined at last to make a direct move. Therefore, on the 10th of September he demanded of Count VON BISMARCK a categorical reply as to whether he would enter upon negotiations for peace. Count VON BISMARCK's first answer was unfavorable, though he subsequently asked what guarantees France could offer. The foreign Minister, who was acting as an intermediary, advised M. FAVRE to see Count VON BISMARCK and make his demands in person.

THE FIRST INTERVIEW.

Accordingly, M. FAVRE saw Count VON BISMARCK; expressed to him his love of France and liberty, and his determination to accept no conditions which would render the peace only a menacing truce.

Count VON BISMARCK replied that if he thought peace were possible he would sign immediately; but the existing Government was too precarious and likely to be overthrown. France would not be any more apt to forget Sedan than she had been to forget Waterloo and Sadowa. She would soon attack Germany again.

Being pressed for conditions, M. FAVRE was explicit, but Count VON BISMARCK asserted that the security of his country demanded the retention of part of the territory the Germans now occupied, and mentioned in that connection the departments of Upper Rhine, Lower Rhine and Moselle, with Metz, Chateau Salnis and Soissons.

To the objection of M. FAVRE, that the people of France would not agree to that, and that he could not act without their sanction, Count VON BISMARCK replied that he felt confident of that before, but as another war was certain, he wished to make it with all the advantages possible.

M. FAVRE then intimated that Europe might find the pretensions of Prussia exorbitant. He was certain that France would never accept them. She might perish as a nation, but she would not be dishonored. The country alone could decide upon the question of territorial cession, and M. FAVRE could not doubt what that decision would be.

Count VON BISMARCK would not listen to any proposition for an armistice.

SECOND INTERVIEW.

The second interview occurred at Ferrieres, on the 19th of September. On this occasion, VON BISMARCK seemed to accept the idea of an armistice. M. FAVRE asked for fifteen days.

THIRD INTERVIEW.

The next day, VON BISMARCK handed M. FAVRE his conditions, adding that the Germans must have the forts commanding Paris, more especially Fort du Mont Valerien, on the western border.

M. FAVRE replied that it would be more simple to demand Paris at once.

VON BISMARCK said if these terms were not satisfactory, the French must seek other arrangements.

M. FAVRE proposed a meeting of the Constituent Assembly at Tours.

VON BISMARCK made a condition that the garrison of Strasbourg should surrender as prisoners of war.

Upon M. FAVRE'S indignantly refusing, Count VON BISMARCK consulted the King, who insisted upon the surrender of Strasbourg.

Wearied with his useless efforts, M. FAVRE retired, expressing the conviction that France would fight to the last.

M. FAVRE concludes from the manner in which all his efforts for peace have been met by the Germans, that they are determined upon conquest. He says the interviews were not altogether useless, as they have proved that notwithstanding Prussia declared she warred only against NAPOLEON and his army, she is really fighting the nation, and which must rise en masse either to disavow the Provisional Government or resist the enemy to the last.

THE GERMAN VERSION.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—A dispatch from the King's head-quarters at Ferrieres, near Paris, says: "M. FAVRE, in his report of his interview with Count BISMARCK, errs in omitting to state that the question of an armistice was considered preliminary to any discussion of territorial cessions. BISMARCK actually declined to state the claims of Prussia until the basis for an armistice was decided on."

GERMAN VIEWS OF THE REPORT.

FERRIERES, Sept. 27.—Papers received today from Paris contain JULES FAVRE'S report of the conference with Count von BISMARCK. The Chancellor declares that the report is an ingenious evasion of the truth, and contains grains of facts mixed up with bushels of misrepresentations. The fact is, BISMARCK only treated with FAVRE with regard to an armistice, not recognizing the power of the Provisional Government to make terms of peace. Regarding the demands of the Germans, in reply to a question by FAVRE, evidently put with a political object, BISMARCK simply declared that the views of Germany with regard to the extent of the security required for future preservation of the peace could only be declared after the principle of territorial cession had been accepted.

M. THIERS' MISSION.

LONDON, Sept. 27—5 P. M.—The following is given as the probable programme of M. THIERS at St. Petersburg:

Constantinople and the road to India to be guaranteed to Russia. Belgium and Egypt to be guaranteed to France. Alsace, part of Lorraine, and the road to Vienna to be guaranteed to Prussia; that is, England, Turkey, Austria and Belgium to be the innocent victims of the peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—M. THIERS arrived here this afternoon.

MONT VALERIEN.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 27.—The Independance Belge, of this city, notes the irreconcilable contradictions in the war news, and the news about the peace overtures.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Count VON BISMARCK'S repudiation of the demand for Fort du Mont Valerien has been promptly met by a reaffirmation of the statement, signed by three Ministers of the Provisional Government.

BRITISH MEDIATION URGED.

A deputation of working men waited on Mr. GLADSTONE, today, and urged him to mediate between Germany and France.

Mr. GLADSTONE, in reply to the working men's deputation, said it was clear that recognition of the French Republic must follow instantly a popular vote sustaining the change of Government.

DESIGNS OF BISMARCK.

Napoleon to be Restored to Sign a Peace and Abdicate — Re-establishment of the Regency — Spain to be Aggrandized and to Become an Ally.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Madrid correspondent of the New-York TIMES, writing on the 23d, says that it is openly avowed at the Prussian Embassy, that the plan of Count VON BISMARCK is as follows:

When Paris is taken to declare NAPOLEON to be the only legitimate power to treat with, and to sign with him a treaty of peace; then to permit him to abdicate in favor of the Prince Imperial, to constitute the Empress EUGENIE Regent, and to appoint a council of the Regency, to consist of EUGENIE, M. ROUHER and some General of the army well affected toward the Bonapartist dynasty. If the people of the Departments of France should refuse to concur in the new order of things, to send there Prussian troops, re-establish the old Prefects, inaugurate a military "reign of terror," and to transport recalcitrant Republicans to Cayenne.

SPAIN AS AN ALLY OF PRUSSIA.

The same correspondent writes that negotiations are actively in progress between Gen. PRIM and the Prussian Ambassador.

The latter has offered, if Spain shall accept Prince JOHN, of Saxony, or some Prussian Prince, for the Spanish throne, to pay Spain several millions of reals, and give her part of Algeria and the fortress of Gibraltar, and to help her to annex Portugal, so as to constitute a powerful ally for Prussia. H.

A DISCLAIMER.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The North German Gazette, (official journal,) of this city, today, says: "Whatever may be the German plans about France, the restoration of the BONAPARTES is not among them."

Prussian Pretensions — British Apprehensions Aroused — Weakness of the Defensive System of England Exposed.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Now that it is evident that the war must go on, and the probability increases that France may be reduced to the position of a second or third-rate Power, public opinion is reacting against Prussia. The pretensions of the latter are becoming alarming to the English for their own safety.

Lord CARNARVON'S speech at Eastwood has given the keynote for a full chorus of gloomy forebodings. His lordship shows how sudden may be the collapse of a great nation under the new system of warfare, and how defenseless England is. He says she has no military organization; the whole defensive arrangements are a vicious circle of incapacity, waste and routine. He adds that whatever is to be done should be done quickly, for England is living on the sufferance of other nations.

Declarations like these, from men like the Earl of CARNARVON and Sir HENRY BULWER, are frightening the English into remorse for not forcing the Government into active mediation. R.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

Spain's Recognition of France — A Scene Between Olozaga and Prim — The Latter Successfully Baited — A Bonapartist Conspiracy Frustrated.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES at Madrid, writing under date of the 20th, states that an interview had taken place between Señor OLOZAGA and Gen. PRIM, in the presence of Señor SAGASTA.

After Señor OLOZAGA had explained in detail the true situation of affairs in Paris, Gen. PRIM asked:

"Why did you recognize the Provisional Government without orders?"

Señor OLOZAGA replied: "I have always had a strong sympathy for France, to which Spain is bound not only by her geographical position, but also by ties of race, and I therefore recognized the new Government without awaiting instructions. A truce to further discussion of the subject. What is done is done, and it remains for you to approve or repudiate the act, to avow it or destine me. Were my life to count but for this single act, I should not think that it has been entirely useless to my country. I await your decision at my residence at Vino."

Subsequently, Señor OLOZAGA breakfasted with the Regent, SERRANO, and urged upon him the policy of recognizing the new Republic. He has thus signally triumphed over Gen. PRIM. R.

A NAPOLEONIC COUP D'ETAT.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Evidences of a plot for another over throw of this republic by the Empress NAPOLEON, with the assistance of M. ROUHER and CASSAGNAC have been discovered in Lyons. It is thought that papers containing details of the conspiracy were burned in Paris by M. PIETRI, before his flight from the city.

FRENCH ACTIVITY.

TOURS, Sept. 27.—The removal of the Governmental Delegation from Tours to a point further south, is imminent. At a meeting of the Council, today, the most energetic measures were resolved upon for the national defense. Requisitions are to be made at once for all fire-arms in the hands of the people, and the inhabitants everywhere are to lodge and feed the troops. All men under twenty-five are to be called into active service. There is a great scarcity of arms.

A PRUSSIAN NOTION.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The Foreign Office has advised the German representatives abroad, as well as the diplomatic corps in Berlin, that no Government exists at Paris. The Government de facto is located at Tours, hence Paris is left to pass military investment.

THE SITUATION AT PARIS

An Adjustment by the Crown Prince Necessary Before an Assault is to Be Made — The Battle of Friday — Reported French Victory — Strength of the Besiegers — Rigid Discipline on Both Sides.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES, writing from Homburg under date of the 24th inst., says that the Crown Princess of Prussia, residing at Castel, with her children, stated to an officer who visited her on the previous day, that she had received a letter from the Crown Prince, who writes that he does not expect there will be much fighting at Paris, as no effort will be made to take the city by bombardment, or by assault. R.

THE BATTLE OF FRIDAY.

TOURS, Sept. 27.—The Prefect of the Department of Nord, under date of Lille, Sept. 26, writes to the Minister of the Interior here that the following news had been received there by carrier pigeon from Paris, dated Friday, Sept. 23:

A FRENCH VICTORY.

The division of Gen. MAUDHUY yesterday attacked the heights at Villejuif, on the south of Paris, which were occupied by the Prussians. The battle began at 4 o'clock in the morning. After sustaining a sharp Prussian fire for some hours, our troops captured the redoubts of Moulins, Sagma, Villejuif and Hautes Bruyeres. We occupy them now. The Garde Mobile behaved well. The enemy's loss is great.

OTHER OPERATIONS.

The same day a considerable force of French made a reconnoissance and drove the enemy from the village of Drancy. The same day Gen. BELLEMARE, the commander at St. Denis, attacked the village of Pierrefitte, about a mile north of St. Denis, which the Prussians had occupied in considerable force. The enemy was driven out of the village, and the French troops returned to St. Denis unmolested.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The guns of Mont Valerien have dislodged the Prussians from St. Cloud.

THE BESIEGERS.

It is estimated that there are now 300,000 German troops around Paris.

THE AERONAUT.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—DARUTH is the name of the aeronaut who landed at Evreux a few days ago with dispatches from Paris. He reports that he was shot at repeatedly by the Prussians, and some of the bullets came disagreeably near their mark.

PRUSSIAN HEAD-QUARTERS.

FERRIERES, France, Sept. 27.—King WILLIAM apparently intends retaining his head-quarters here. He has made every preparation for a long stay; erected telegraph lines, &c.

RIGID DISCIPLINE ENFORCED.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Gen. TROCHU announces stern penalties against cowardice, pillage, desertion, and other unsoldierly conduct. The Prussians around Paris are said to maintain strict discipline. The Departments of Seine et Oise and Seine et Marne are now all under their control, except the City of Paris.

HARSH TREATMENT OF A BRITISH MESSENGER.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Capt. JOHNSTON, the bearer of dispatches for the British Government, was, recently, roughly handled, near Paris, by the Prussians, and subsequently by the French, under the belief that, being an Englishman, he must be a spy. The English are unpopular with both armies.

STRASBOURG AND METZ.

A Breach at Strasbourg — The French Commander Unable to Hold Out Much Longer — Prussian Cannon Almost Within Musket-Shot — The Situation at Metz.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES writing from Hamburg on the 25th, says that Strasbourg can be taken at any moment, as a breach as large as a house has been made in the walls, but that there are two ditches and the river, ill to be crossed before reaching it, and three or four thousand men must be sacrificed by the Germans in the assault. The final attack will probably take place in a few days.

FRUSTRATED MISREPRESENTATIONS.

The reported offer of Marshal BAZAINE to capitulate turns out, as you are already aware, to be a canard. So will, also, no doubt, his alleged repudiation of the Provisional Government of France. It suits the purposes of Count VON BISMARCK to create this impression. R.

STRASBOURG YIELDING.

Gen. ULRICH announces that Strasbourg can hold out but a short time.

THE BOMBARDMENT.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The Press, in repelling the charge that the bombardment of Strasbourg was carried on while the City was crowded with women and children, says Gen. ULRICH, the French commander, has persisted in declining to allow non-combatants to leave.

METZ BLOCKADED.

The siege of Metz has become a close blockade, interrupted occasionally by an exchange of active hostilities. Marshal BAZAINE, repudiating the Republic, demands the order of the Empress to surrender.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Prisoners of War in Germany, 149,000 — Rigid Discipline — They Work on the Canals — Orleans Abandoned by the French — Marvellous Evasion — The Watteau Soldats Story.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—"Lupus," the correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES at Mayence, writing on the 23d, estimates the total number of French soldiers taken prisoners since the war began at 140,000.

TREATMENT OF THE PRISONERS.

The prisoners are subjected to the severe Prussian rule of discipline. One French officer, who attempted to escape, was tried by Court-martial, and shot the following day. In Hanover, the prisoners of war are compelled to work on the canals.

Among the prisoners at Breslau are ROBERT MITCHELL, of the Constitutionnel, PAUL DE CASSAGNAC, of the Pays, and CARNETTE and FATHEAUX, well-known Parisian journalists. R.

EVACUATION OF ORLEANS.

TOURS, Sept. 26.—The following dispatch from the Prefect of the Department of Loiret, dated Orleans, today, has just been received by the Minister of War:

"The Generals here seeing they cannot resist the overwhelming forces of the enemy, commanded by Prince ALBERT, have just evacuated Orleans in good order."

ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—Prince ALBERT'S cavalry corps encountered French troops gathered for the defense of Orleans yesterday, near Artheuays. After a brisk fight of three hours, the French retreated on Tours. The Prussian occupation of Orleans is expected to-morrow.

PREPARATIONS FOR EXPENSES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Dispatches from Marseilles state that the city is borrowing money and arming with her traditional patriotism. The Mayor announces a loan of ten millions. GAFFINALO, a Greek merchant, gives the municipality two millions to purchase arms. A grand review of the Garde Nationale occurred yesterday. 12,000 soldiers were in line, of whom 10,000 were well armed.

REOPENING OF THE PORT OF KIEL.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The port of Kiel has been reopened, now that the French fleet has been withdrawn from the Baltic.

THE JACOBY ARREST.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The arrest of Herr JACOBY, the noted Liberal, has given profound offense throughout North Germany.

THE IMPERIAL FAMILY.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Queen VICTORIA, yielding to public sentiment, has written a letter of condolence to the Empress of the French.

VIENNA, Sept. 27.—The story of the attempted suicide of the Emperor NAPOLEON, which first appeared in the Vienna Press, proves a canard.

YACHTING.

The Atlantic Yacht Club Regatta — The Contest for the Pennants — A Good Day, a Fine Breeze and a Splendid Race.

The Atlantic Yacht Club regatta was brought to a close yesterday with a race for the champion pennant, which was well sailed and contested. The weather was charming, almost a little too warm, but yachtsmen growled in the cool parlors of the saloons over the beauty of the day, that relaxed the vigor of the Bloomers, enveloped the Jersey and Staten Island shores, and did not clear off until near 11 o'clock. The steamer Peregrine moored by the foot of Montague-street until 9 o'clock, when she steamed away, having on board the Regatta Committee of the association, the yachtsmen, the Press, and other invited guests, among whom were Major-Gen. WOODWARD, of the Second Division, National Guard, Commodore PERRY, of the Atlantic Club, Capt. HOWARTH, V. HOLMES, owner of the yacht Fleetwing, of the Brooklyn Club, Chief Engineer HEWITT, of the Department of Docks, and other gentlemen friends of the members. The company was a bachelor party, the weather being deemed too cold for the ladies. The Race Committee included Messrs. H. H. HAGUE, Chairman, and T. V. BERRIMAN and C. C. CLIFTON. The Judges were Wm. H. DOUGLAS and EDWARD ARNOLD.

When the steamer arrived off Gowanus Bay, there was scarcely a puff of wind, and not a ripple on the water. After some delay, all the boats, with the exception of the schooner Mystic, took up positions opposite the Dolphin House. The Mystic had to be towed outside to her place with the others. Nine of the Club boats contested for the prize, whose names appear below: The tonnage was for schooners and first-class sloops; From the anchorage down through the Narrows, to and around Buoy No. 10, at South-west Spit; thence to and around Buoy No. 9, at Romer Shoal, rounding the same from the southward; thence home, going to southward and westward of beacon on Romer Shoal. For second and third class sloops: The same course to and around Buoy No. 10, at South-west Spit; thence to and around a stake-boat, near a buoy in Sedgley Channel, rounding the same from the southward; thence home, passing beacon on Romer Shoal, to the southward and westward. For fourth-class sloops, open boats: Same course to and around Buoy No. 10 at South-west Spit; thence home. All yachts to pass between Fort Lafayette and Richmond, to the eastward of Buoys Nos. 11, 13 and 15, on West Bank, both going and returning; around Buoy No. 10 at South-west Spit from west to east, and around home stake-boat from east to west.

At 11¼ o'clock the Wayside Inquirer gave the word that it was start, and the fleet went on in a quiet pace, in the following order: Apollo, Flyaway, Mystic, Whitecap, Qui Vive, Annie, Daphne, Josephine and Orion. The Apollo kept the lead, as she well might, for all were drifting, and continued hugging the shore until opposite Quarantine, Staten Island, when the breeze began to freshen. The Annie took the advantage of it, and with well-filled canvas stepped out rapidly, passing the forts, followed in good order by the Flyaway, Daphne and Apollo. All then caught the breeze, and went off at a spanking rate, passing the hospital in the Lower Bay, the following in the order named: Annie, Flyaway, Daphne, Apollo, Whitecap, Qui Vive and Orion. There was an even distance between the leading three, but the Apollo was a long way behind, and the others almost entirely out of sight. The schooner Mystic nowhere. They turned the South-west Spit in the following order: Flyaway leading, Annie second, Daphne third, Apollo seconds behind, and Apollo, Flyaway, Qui Vive and Orion following close up. The boats then made for the Gedney Channel Buoy, which was turned by the Whitecap leading, the Daphne twenty seconds behind, and the Annie, Qui Vive and Orion following. The sun came out splendidly after the home-boat at 2:15:43, the Apollo following. The large boats arrived as follows: Whitecap, Daphne, Orion, Qui Vive (Josephine and Annie. Up to a late hour the Mystic was not in from Staten Island, to be allowed some of the boats, and will be settled by the judges today.

The Race for the Admiral Cup Postponed.

The race for the silver cup offered by Mr. JAMES ASHBURST, owner of the Scottish yacht Cambria, was to have taken place outside of Sandy Hook yesterday. It was postponed until today in consequence of the calm. Among the yachts which assembled at Sandy Hook for the purpose of taking part in the contest were the following: Fleetwing, Geo. A. Osgood; Josephine, H. M. C. Durfee; Madgie, R. F. Loper; Idle, Vose Wm. Voorhis; Madeline, Enoch Pearce; Jennie, Wm. Voorhis; Madeleine, James Ashbury; Palmer, Rutherford Stuyvesant; Sappho, William Douglas; Gracie and Addie.

The race was to be outside of the bar, a distance of twenty miles to windward and return. The breeze was really strong enough to suit the yachts, and it was accordingly determined to have the race today, together with the contest for the cup offered by Mr. DOUGLAS, owner of the Sappho.

As soon as the judges had settled that the race for Mr. ASHBURST'S Cup was not to be sailed until today, the wind sprung up, and a splendid race was indulged in by the Annie, Qui Vive, Josephine, Madeleine and Tarolenta. The Sappho, Fleetwing and Madgie followed in pursuit, but the others had too long a start for them to make up the difference. The Idle of Wave won the race, the Josephine, Sappho, Annie, Tarolenta, Fleetwing and the Madgie and Madeleine following in the order named.

POSTSCRIPT.

TIMES OFFICE, SEPT. 28—4 A. M.

THE NEW CAPITAL OF ITALY.

Visit of the Pope to the Magistrates of the Wounded — Views for His Holiness, the King said Truly — Reconstruction of the Municipal Government — Prisoners Sent to Remove the Italian Garrison — Manifestoes of the Germania.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A special correspondent at Florence sends word today that the Pope made a kind of pastoral tour of the City of Rome, descending from his carriage only once, to visit the wounded at the hospital of the Scuderie, where some fifty or sixty soldiers, chiefly of the Italian Army, who are all well cared for. His Holiness was escorted by a brilliant staff of Italian officers and two squadrons of cavalry. He was accompanied by Cardinal PATRIZI and by Monsignore BARNI. As the hospital His Holiness was received with great reverence by Monsignore HOWARD and conducted through the vast and spacious wards. He bestowed his blessing upon the wounded, and was greeted most sympathetically by all. His Holiness looked well, and was received along the entire route with cries of "EVVIVA IL Santo Padre!" mingled with cries for Italy and King VICTOR.

THE MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The reorganization of the municipal government goes on rapidly, and, so far, quietly. The services of Gen. CADORNA is universally extolled. Arrangements are making for the removal of the Government to Italy and of the Diplomatic Corps to Rome.

RESIDENCES OF FOREIGN MINISTERS.

It is said that the American Minister, Mr. MARSH, has engaged a suite of apartments in Palazzo Odescalchi, on the Piazza Santi Apostoli, and that the American Consul-General to Italy, Mr. GRAHAM, has taken the splendid residence previously occupied by the British agent, Mr. ODO RUSSELL, in the Palazzo Chigi. It appears that when the advance of the Italian Army under Gen. COSENZ reached the Villa Toulouse, on the Via Nomentana, in their approach to the city, they found the Italian flag hoisted and flying over its grand entrance. This was before a shot had been fired, and while the Zouaves at the Porta Pia, a mile or so further on, were still, by order of Gen. KOUDELKA, maintaining a show of resistance.

THE OCCUPATION.

At the Pala Maggiore, and on this side of San Giovanni Laterano, there was no fighting at all—only a brief parley, which was put a stop to by the arrival of General Count DE COURTEN, of the Pontifical Army, in company with M. PAGNUCCI, one of His Holiness' secretaries, bringing orders for the peaceful submission of the garrison.

DISTURBANCES IN THE CITY.

As no point was any artillery used, and there was consequently but little or no damage done in effecting this great revolution. There were some few attempts at riot, particularly in the quarters about the Fontane di Trevi and the Piazza Navona; and in the Borgo a sharp fight took place between a squad of Dutch Zouaves and some of the populace, in which five or six persons were more or less severely wounded. But the rapid occupation of the city, and the prompt recognition of the Italian authorities by the Papal Government, and the few foreign representatives in Rome, together with the wise disposition made of the people by Gen. ANTONELLI, who was charged with the details of the matter, secured public order fully.

THE PARRAGUT OBSEQUIES.

Removal of the Remains to the United States Steamer "Canonicus" — Sailing of the "Canonicus" for New-York.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—A special dispatch to the Post from Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 27th, says: The body of Admiral FARRAGUT was taken from the Marsh Tomb at St. John's Church, in this city this afternoon, by the United States naval officers of this station and others and conveyed on board the United States steamer Canonicus to proceed to New-York for burial, where one of the grandest funeral pageants the country ever saw will be observed on Friday. It was ordered by the Navy Department that the United States steamer Brooklyn should receive the body at this station and convey it to New-York with the Canonicus, but it being impossible to get the Brooklyn coaled and her boilers cleaned in season to make sure of an early arrival in New-York, Friday morning, Commander PENNOCK ordered that the Canonicus for the Brooklyn, and that vessel proceeded to New-York, on Tuesday evening, at 6 o'clock, leaving the Brooklyn to follow in the night, and to take a escort in New-York harbor. It had been the desire of the family of the deceased here to proceed to New-York by rail with the body, and to lay it to rest in the most quiet manner; but the City authorities, and other prominent parties in the great metropolis, learning the fact, insisted so strongly upon extending public honors to the deceased that the family at last consented. Alderman LAWRENCE JEROME, of New-York, with others, were appointed a committee, and visited Portland and Portsmouth several weeks since to make proper arrangements. Commodore PENNOCK showed every possible honor on the occasion, and all the officers at the station were present in full uniform, with 100 men as an escort. Harlow's Marine Band discoursed the music.

The steamer Speedwell brought over the officers and men from the yard, and the procession was formed under Major LEWIS and Lieut. WAINWRIGHT, and marched to the church, where Commodore PENNOCK, Lieut. FARRAGUT, son of the deceased, and Major MONTGOMERY, his private secretary, as mourners, and Alderman JEROME, of New-York, Major-Gen. C. K. GRAHAM, Admiral HAILEY and Paymaster J. CUNNINGHAM, of the Naval Loyal Legion, as Committee from New-York, with all the officers of the stations, and a detachment of sailors from the Brooklyn as body-bearers. The escort of Marines received the body, the band saluting as it was received in line. Mayor ADAMS and Alderman WOOLLEY and WILLIS represented the City Government of Portsmouth on the occasion. As the procession started minute-guns were fired from the United States steamer Vandalia and from the Navy-yard until the arrival and reception of the body on board the Speedwell, when the Admiral's pennant, a half-mast, on the main and the national ensign on the fore mast.

On reaching the Canonicus in the lower harbor, the yards of that vessel were manned and the body received on board with a salute. Commodore PENNOCK, Lieut. FARRAGUT and Major MONTGOMERY accompanied the body to New-York, and also Harlow's Marine Band from this station. The Speedwell, with the yard-officers and men, returned to this yard. It is expected the Canonicus and Brooklyn will reach New-York Thursday night, and be received at Sandy Hook by a grand naval and marine escort. The elegant catafalque which has been constructed in this yard for use on board the ship only, is placed on board the Canonicus to be set up on entering New-York harbor. The event today was one of much interest to our citizens, who knew the old Admiral well and loved him much.

PURSUIT OF THE HERMANN.

A French War Vessel in Full Chase.

The Cunard Steamer Scotia Eight Hours Behind Forty Miles From Sandy Hook — Arrival of French War Ship.

Safe in the Harbor.

The steam-ship Scotia, of the Cunard line, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool and Queenstown, brings us news that lends considerable excitement to all those interested directly or indirectly, in the steamer Hermann, of the Hamburg line, which put to sea at an early hour yesterday morning. About 7 o'clock in the forenoon the alarm spread that the French war-steamer was at the time going as we estimated, sixty knots, having on a full head of steam. She was bearing onward in rapidity to arrest the attention of the Scotia passengers. The cause of her unusual speed was soon explained by the appearance of a French war vessel, also under full steam, and in quick chase of the Hermann. The two vessels, as sighted from the Scotia, must have been within view of each other, and both seemed inclined to keep up the race. The Hermann was a long way ahead of the Frenchman, and the belief on board the Scotia was that, should she be able to maintain the same distance between herself and her pursuer until night-fall, she could then escape in the darkness.

Immediately on the arrival of the steamer, CAPT. JUDKINS reported the matter to the Custom-house officers, who boarded his steamer. The following is an account of the Franco-German race, which occurred in over the Bay only five hours before she was sighted by the Scotia. The Scotia must have passed the German vessel without being aware of her presence. Had she encountered her, the Hermann would, in all probability, have been captured, as no other war-vessel, under peace, the Bremen line would be mans a steamer today.

Until we receive further intelligence, the gravest apprehensions must be entertained for the safety of the steamer. The gun-boat Bouvet is commanded by an experienced officer, Lieut. FERNIQUET, and has on board a large complement of men, with large stores of ammunition and other war material. She comes from St. Pierre under special orders. Last night she and a sister vessel of the French Navy lay quietly at anchor opposite the Hoge Office. EUROPEAN MAIL NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE SCOTIA & CITY OF WASHINGTON.

The Cunard steam-ship Scotia, which left Liverpool on Sept. 17 and Queenstown on Sept. 18, arrived at this port yesterday morning. Her advices are fresher by three days than those received by the Abyssinia on Sunday. The English mail, dispatched on Sept. 18 from Liverpool and on Sept. 17 from Queenstown, by the City of Washington, were gotten during the evening of yesterday. The packages by the City of Washington complete the mails of the week.

DISASTER ON THE AMAZON.

One Hundred and Thirty-one Lives Lost by a Steam-boat Collision.

From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Aug. 18.

A most disastrous accident occurred during the night of the 7th of July, about twenty miles below Manaos, upon the River Amazon, owing to a collision between the steamer Arary, of the Amazon Steam Navigation Company, and the steamer Hermanos. The two vessels, as sighted from the Scotia, must have been within view of each other, and both seemed inclined to keep up the race. The Hermanos was a long way ahead of the Frenchman, and the belief on board the Scotia was that, should she be able to maintain the same distance between herself and her pursuer until night-fall, she could then escape in the darkness.

Immediately on the arrival of the steamer, CAPT. JUDKINS reported the matter to the Custom-house officers, who boarded his steamer. The following is an account of the Franco-German race, which occurred in over the Bay only five hours before she was sighted by the Scotia. The Scotia must have passed the German vessel without being aware of her presence. Had she encountered her, the Hermann would, in all probability, have been captured, as no other war-vessel, under peace, the Bremen line would be mans a steamer today.

Until we receive further intelligence, the gravest apprehensions must be entertained for the safety of the steamer. The gun-boat Bouvet is commanded by an experienced officer, Lieut. FERNIQUET, and has on board a large complement of men, with large stores of ammunition and other war material. She comes from St. Pierre under special orders. Last night she and a sister vessel of the French Navy lay quietly at anchor opposite the Hoge Office. FATHER HYACINTHE.

The Carmelite on American Sympathy for France.

The American Minister at Paris has received the following letter from Père HYACINTHE:

MONSIEUR LE MINISTRE: Detained in the country for nearly a month by the state of my health, prostrated by so many and such cruel emotions, I sincerely regret that I am not able to shake the hand which has written a letter so justly sympathetic for my country. This letter is a page of the history of the two worlds. It revives the memories of WASHINGTON and LAFAYETTE, and proves that if despotism had succeeded in dividing the two Governments, liberty had not escaped an instant in uniting the two peoples of Europe, which she has anointed with the blood of our hearts. Fêtes, yet keeps silence; and already America, in spite of the ocean which separates us, has made its voice heard. She affirms that neither distance nor diversity of races shall render foreigners to each other the nations which have the same blood in their veins. The French Republic, her young sister, that right which belongs to her, because she was the first to proclaim it—"the inalienable right to live in laboring for the happiness of all."! I am happy, Monsieur le Ministre, that such sentiments have found their authorized interpreter in a man, whose name I respect, which I honor myself, and I pray that you will accept the expression of my sincere gratitude and the homage of my respectful and profound attachment. HYACINTHE.

To His Excellency Mr. WASHBURNE, Minister of the United States, Paris.

ARMY OF PARIS.

A Grand Review by the French Metropolis — Almost 400,000 Men in Line.

Paris (Sept. 18) Correspondence Times.

This has been a day of great excitement in Paris, and of intense interest. There has been a review of all the troops—at least as it is called a review; but really it was little more than a display of the troops in line along the streets. The National Guard, in double rank close packed, lined one side of the Boulevards from the Bastille to the Madeleine, a distance of about three miles. The Garde Mobile did the same with the troops of the line, in single rank, on each side of the Boulevards; the Frenchcotera crowded along the quays, and all these streams of men overflowed into the place de la Concorde. The great stream which poured along the quay (right bank) went Ste. Abroad, and the Champs Elysées were choked with troops. All parts besides the Mobiles—cavalry and infantry, the line, National Guards, Frenchcotera, marine and artillery. Of course there could be no evolutions, but there was a very imposing display of numbers. The troops in Paris of all sorts are now reckoned at 400,000, and they certainly make a good show, at least of the raw material. If there were time to drill them, and if they were properly armed, there is here the stuff of a formidable army.

THE TROOPS.

To return, however, to the review. The sight was most imposing of all at the Place de la Concorde. The popular favorites were the troops of the Line, who, whenever they appeared, were greeted with prodigious cheering. "Vive la Ligne! Vive la Ligne!" was a most enthusiastic cry. Also some other cries reached me that I fancied detected some difference of political feeling in different portions of the National Guard, which turned out to the number of 170,000. Nobody, of course, dares to say a word against the Republic, but there is no harm in shouting "Vive la France!" Some of the battalions were very loud in shouting "Vive la République France!" and were loud with their cry of "Vive la France!" It was an eager, but I fancy the difference significant. Whatever their differences of opinion, they were all very jolly. Pray observe that last epithet. Here can I escape using one of those words which, according to Mr. DISRAELI, constitute the English language? What I mean is that the citizen soldiers, who are known officially—not less than officially—as the Sedentary troops, (the full title of the force is La Garde Nationale Sédentaire, and when they are described respectfully one of these adjectives is used, when jokingly the other), were in great good humor, and chatted gayly with the crowds who came out to see them. All along the line the windows were filled with spectators on the pavement stood the crowds, and every one of the National Guard in sections at least, and is strongly impressed with the notion that the entire safety of the State depends on it. It does not quite know, however, how to adjust itself to this huge responsibility. So softly, while waiting for the march, they cast to pass, it amused itself by making several arrests in the crowd. One was of a priest, who was attacked as a Prussian spy. A company of the Guard closed round him, kept the mob off, and proceeded to examine his papers. It turned out that the divine had just arrived from Rome, and was a Frenchman. He had come in the hope of being useful in connection with the ambulance service. As soon as this was ascertained the Captain of the guard threw his arms round the priest and kissed him on both cheeks. Then the Lieutenant came up and did the same. He was followed by every man in the company, and at last the Reverend Father was let loose among the crowd, who were satisfied with the demonstration they had witnessed. When there was nobody to arrest, and the mob grew about the ranks, the Colonel gave the word for the march, and the battalion moved off to the part' packs-tax, cutting deeply in. On reaching the Arary the Perle soon succeed sinking. The boats of the Arary were at once got out, each with a light in it, and seventy-three persons, including the commander, Capt. ESPANOZ DA SILVA, were thus rescued. When daylight came search was made along the shore, but no others being seen the Arary then continued her voyage to Manaos. The vessel had two large holes in her bows under water, but the forward partition kept her from sin

BANKERS AND EXCHANGE DEALERS
OFFICE OF THE CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD AND ALL ITS BRANCHES.
No. 5 NASSAU-ST.,
NEW-YORK, SEPT. 20, 1869.

FIVE-TWENTY BONDS ARE SELLING steadily at an average of 113¾, and as the Government should allow them to run for only one per cent. a year, we see no inducement to present Bonds for payment. Six per cents, payable in gold, are at a premium of 10 per cent. Ten-forties are now selling at par, and are the best investment for small capitalists. Seven-thirties—yet a good deal of them in the hands of the people—are worth 103 in currency, or 98 in gold, and at that price are the cheapest Bonds in the market. Compound-interest Notes are not worth buying, as they will not be redeemed for a year, and then only at par. Gold is 133¾ to-day, and we think it will be 140 before the 1st of January. Capital of three millions, and a large surplus, invested in Government Bonds, and other first-class securities, enables us to offer unusual facilities to our customers. Interest allowed on deposits, subject to check at sight. Collections made on favorable terms. Orders for the purchase and sale of Gold, Government Bonds, and other securities executed promptly and faithfully. Particular attention given to the purchase and sale of Pacific Railroad Bonds, and to the negotiation of loans on the same. Pamphlets, containing full information in regard to the Company, its Land Grant, Resources, Progress, Business, Earnings, Prospects, &c., furnished on application.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

The official report of M. JULES FAVRE to the Government at Tours, on the result of his negotiations with Count BISMARCK is telegraphed substantially from that city today. M. FAVRE states that after the failure of many proposed solutions, he determined on the 20th inst., to demand direct reply as to whether Count VON BISMARCK would enter upon negotiations for peace. The reply was unfavorable, but the Count afterward asked what guarantees France could offer. M. FAVRE was then advised by the Foreign Minister who was acting as intermediary, to see M. BISMARCK, and the first interview followed. The result of this was that M. BISMARCK stated the guarantees that Germany would require were the retention of the territory of the Upper and Lower Rhine Provinces and Moselle, with Metz, Chateau Salmis and Soissons. M. FAVRE objected that France would not consent to this, and he could not act without her consent, and M. BISMARCK replied that he felt confident of that before, but as another war was certain, he wished to make it with all the advantages possible. M. FAVRE replied that Europe might find the pretensions of Prussia exorbitant. His report says that BISMARCK would not listen to any proposition for an armistice. At the second interview M. BISMARCK seemed to favor an armistice, and M. FAVRE asked for fifteen days. At the third and last interview M. BISMARCK handed M. FAVRE his conditions, adding that the Prussians must have the forts commanding Paris, especially Fort du Mont Valerien. M. FAVRE proposed a meeting of the Constituent Assembly, and M. BISMARCK made it a condition that the garrison of Strasbourg should surrender prisoners of war. M. FAVRE indignantly refused, and the Count referred to the King, who insisted that Strasbourg should surrender. M. FAVRE withdrew expressing the conviction that France would fight to the last. He concludes from these interviews that the design of Prussia is conquest. A Berlin dispatch says that M. FAVRE erre in omitting to state that an armistice was considered preliminary to any discussion of territorial cessions, and that von BISMARCK declined to state his claims until the terms of an armistice were decided on. M. THIERS, it is said in a London dispatch, is to offer Russia Constantinople and the road to India, Belgium and Egypt to be guaranteed to France, and Alsace, part of Lorraine and the road to Vienna to Prussia. Our Madrid correspondent telegraphs that it is openly avowed at the North German Embassy in that city that the plan of Count BISMARCK is to restore NAPOLEON long enough to sign a peace, when he is to abdicate in favor of his son; that a Regency, with the Empress as Regent, and M. ROUHER and a Bonapartist General associated with her in the Council, is then to be established and enforced by Prussian troops and a military terrorism. The same correspondent says that negotiations are in progress for placing a Saxon or Prussian Prince on the throne of Spain, Prussia furnishing money, and promising her a part of Algeria, Gibraltar, and aid in annexing Portugal, in order to make her a powerful ally of Germany. Our London correspondent telegraphs that public opinion in England is reacting against Prussia in view of the pretensions of the latter. Recent speeches by the Earl of CARNARVON and Sir HENRY BULWER, showing the weakness of the British defensive system, have given the key-note for much foreboding. A deputation of Birmingham visited Mr. GLADSTONE yesterday, and urged motion between France and Germany. The Queen, in obedience to the public sympathy, has written a letter of condolence to the Empress EUGENIE. According to a London dispatch, evidence has been discovered in Lyons of another coup d'état in favor of NAPOLEON. MM. ROUHER and CASSAGNAC are said to be the active agents. The Berlin North German Gazette says that whatever Prussian intentions may be regarding France, the restoration of the Bonapartists is not among them. One Madrid correspondent telegraphs the substance of an interview between Señor OLOZAGA, the Spanish Ambassador to France, and Gen. PRIM, in which the former virtually set the latter at defiance in relation to the recognition of the new French Government.

The guns of Mont Valerien at Paris have dislodged the Prussians from St. Cloud. The German forces about Paris are estimated at 200,000. "Carrier pigeon" dispatches from Paris received at Lille, represent that the battle reported on Friday resulted in victory for the French who captured the redoubts of Moulin Saquet, Villejuif and Hautes Bruyeres. Other encounters are reported through the same medium. Gen. ULRICH, the French commander at Strasbourg, is said to have announced that he can hold out but a short time. Our Hamburg correspondent's dispatch today states that a large breach has been made in the walls, and that the city can be taken at any moment, but the assault will cost the Germans 5,000 to 6,000 men. Our correspondent at Hamburg telegraphs that the Crown Prince, in a letter to the Princess, says that there would be no bombardment or assault on Paris, or much fighting. Our Warsaw correspondent says the French prisoners of war in Germany number about 140,000, and that they are compelled to work on the canals in Hanover. A French officer had been shot for attempting to escape.

King Tweed and His Subjects.

To the apathy of the Republicans in this City, and the disposition of the public to submit to the first audacious man who chooses to impose upon them, we owe the rise of the Tweed dynasty in our midst. We profess to sympathize with every oppressed people in the world, but where shall we find a community more completely under the thraldom of an autocracy than our own? King TWEED is our master, and men like FISH, Jr., compose his Court. A very considerable portion of our property is at their command. The firman of an Eastern potentate does not carry more authority with it than the orders of the lord paramount of New-York. When rulers like the great Mogul, or the Ex-King of Oudh, or the present SCINDIAH, wanted money, they simply levied a requisition, and the people had nothing to do but to submit. This is what we should call living under a despotism, and so it is—but our own plight is scarcely any better. New-York is immensely overtaxed, and every year thousands of people are driven out of it because they cannot afford to live within its boundaries. The northern towns of New-Jersey are filled with refugees from this City. We have the worst-paved and the worst-lit City in the universe, and yet taxes are wring from us to an amount scarcely known elsewhere. Of the money thus raised, a large sum goes into the hands of TWEED and his associates, and there it sticks. All the bluster in the world will not convince the public that this is not true. There never was so extravagant, so unprincipled, or so degraded a local government as that of the United States as the Democratic government of this City, and Mr. TWEED himself would scarcely take the trouble to deny the fact. Public opinion matters very little to a man of his description.

And yet, in the face of all this, Mr. SAMUEL TILDEN, a Democrat of a school which TWEED and his friends cannot even understand, comes before the community to preach about "centralism" and "imperialism" in government. Will he tell us of any despot in the world at this moment who is practically more unchecked than Mr. TWEED, or who is making money faster, and all by a system of "centralism" in local government? The new palace on Fifth-avenue is an astounding proof of what may be accomplished by a bold man when he has to do with a public insensible or protecting itself. The building is one of the show-places of the town. The very cashbox by longing to it are fitted up with imperial splendor. In some respects it is better to be one of Mr. TWEED's horses than a poor day-payer of the City. We have many self-made men in our midst whose houses are a credit to the City. The success of these men is generally to be traced to hard work. But it was only when Mr. TWEED left off working hard that he became rich. As a chair-maker he could never have crossed the threshold of his present house, except in quest of a job. Chair-making is a useful and an honorable vocation, but it does not apply any man to put by ten millions sterling in the course of six or seven years. "How did he make all his money?" strangers ask when they see our great Dictator's palatial residence. The secret is Mr. TWEED's. By and by he will, perhaps, make it known for the benefit of the generation just entering upon active life. It is quite certain that his rules will not exactly accord with the industrial maxims of BENJAMIN FRANKLIN and other old-fashioned authorities.

"If the policy of centralization continues," said Mr. TILDEN, in presiding over the Paphian revels at Rochester, "we shall reproduce on this continent precisely what we see today upon the European Continent." So far as this City is concerned, we need not wait half a century for the consummation. A million of people are placed under the absolute sway of an irresponsible conclave. If this is not centralism, what is? "It means the worst government," says Mr. TILDEN, "that human invention ever devised, or that human craft ever applied." He is quite right, only he does not seem to have been aware that he was describing the monstrous abuse which has grown up under the hands of the very men who sent him to preside over that disgusting political extravaganza at Rochester. TWEED and his confederates have scarcely left the community in possession of any rights. Their political privileges are practically suppressed by Mr. TWEED's agencies for preventing fair elections. Honest citizens have been practically disfranchised. Their property is taxed, not for their own good, but in order that adventurers may make vulgar displays of riches in our streets. Great enterprise in which people embarked their savings have been annexed by the "Ring" or their friends. The transactions in regard to the Erie Railroad, sanctioned by the Democratic Governor, could scarcely be imitated in safety in his own dominions by the Sultan of Turkey. They amounted to a wholesale confiscation of private property, and that property has since been squandered in the most profligate and licentious manner. Is this what Mr. TILDEN means by returning to the good old times of JEFFERSON and JACKSON? In those days people have no redress left to them when they are robbed. They might as well have been born on the estates of a feudal Baron. The wrong-doers, so far from being severely punished, are in some measure popular; they show their faces unhindered in social gatherings, and gentlemen of character and honor, like Mr. SAMUEL TILDEN, condescend to become their mouthpieces at political conventions. We must go back to the worst days of Rome or Venice to find any parallel to the system of government under which New-York is carried on at this moment.

It is a question for the Democratic Party outside this City to decide how much longer they can expect to exist saddled with the incubus of TWEED and his minions. The reputation of this act is now immeasurably worse than that of any political organization in the whole country. Their names are associated with all kinds of demoralization and pollution. It is safe to say that no party could go on much longer with such a crew at its leaders and representatives. The country Democrats must free themselves from the mass of knavery associated with the City Democracy if they hope to prosper in the future. For the Republicans there is only one course—systematic and determined hostility to the Tweed faction. It is inconceivable that any intelligent man can reflect on TWEED's wealth, and TWEED's houses, and FISH's exploits, and Gov. HOFFMAN's connection with them—and then abstain, in idleness or indifference, from casting his vote next November against the whole pack.

Capital Germany to Make Peace?

Dueling is a barbarous institution enough, but as practiced among civilized men it has a recognized code, in which humanity and common fairness are not altogether forgotten. The man who had wounded his antagonist in a personal quarrel, but who should decline to lay aside his arms until the fallen foe was hopelessly maimed and disfigured for life, would justly be accounted little short of a wild beast. A nation is but an aggregate of men, and it is difficult to imagine any good reason why a course of action that would dishonor the individual should be held to be creditable to the mass. The unit fights for what he calls wounded honor, and desists when it is satisfied; the combined millions of units fight sometimes for an equally empty phrase, sometimes for the more tangible reason of national cohesion or defense, but in either case are equally expected to desist when the prescribed object is attained. The solidarity of nations has become in these times more than a mere verbal expression, as France discovered when she declared war against Prussia, and was confronted by a united Germany, and as Germany may find should she isolate herself from the moral support of every free State in the world. When the Second Empire menaced the internal cohesion of Germany by provoking a causeless quarrel, the sympathies of the great majority of onlookers were instinctively turned against the aggressor. It was patriotism on the one side against the lust of conquest on the other; and even the share market, which knows no country, and concerns itself but little about abstract right or wrong, rose with the assurance of each victory from the Spottish dynasties into which the probable advance of the French arms had at first thrown it. But all this has changed now. The patriotism has shifted to the French side, and the aggression seems to perch upon the German banners. The Empire that began the war is dead beyond hope of resuscitation, and Prussia now wars against a people who have but newly resumed those sovereign prerogatives for whose abuse they are but partially responsible.

A nation that stands in the front rank of modern civilization and culture persists in protracting the most desolating struggle that the world has seen. Weighty and potent reasons alone could justify war under such circumstances, and from an educated and religious Germany, humanity expects exceptionally good reasons for such a course. German unity was in peril. BISMARCK himself cannot pretend that it is so any longer. France was an ambitious and encroaching neighbor. She is ready to give all the guarantees that one nation can expect from another that she will be so no more. The world expected the triumph of the German arms to inaugurate an era of peaceful progress, and to discredit forever the theory of national conquest. The foremost military Power in Europe could have held military ambition forever in check. Instead of that, it seems on the point of becoming the most relentless and malignant of conquerors that the Old World has seen since ATTILA and his Huns earned the title of "the scourge of God." The "pitiless logic" of their native HEGEL finds more than a counterpart in the terrible connection with which the German leaders push their plans to their utmost developments. Two hemispheres stand aghast at the portentous spectacle of Paris besieged. They are becoming stirred to indignation at the recital of cruelties inflicted upon women and children, for which the respectability of the authorities elsewhere quoted demands a certain degree of credence. France is being goaded into desperation, and may any day rise en masse upon the invaders, with all the instincts of a wild beast, for whose blind fury those who provoked it must be held responsible.

To such very excellent reasons for concluding an honorable peace with France, there is now added the important one of growing discontent among the people of Germany. Stern and implacable abroad, Prussia has been compelled to become arbitrary at home. An odious war has begun upon the organs of public opinion, and arguments that cannot be met are conveniently silenced by the agency of prison bars. Liberal Democratic Germany has no quarrel with a free and Republican France, and in spite of repression and persecution, it will continue to lodge its protest with growing emphasis against a war that threatens popular liberty at home as well as abroad. Let Prussia beware lest the national unity, which at the beginning of the war sprung at once into a new and vigorous life, should ere its close become a hollow and uncertain thing—shattered by the ordeal of success more fatally than it could ever have been by the direst adversity. Recollections of '48 are not dead yet in Bavaria, Baden, or even in Prussia itself, and much as the Germans value liberty with union, they may once more elect to have the first, though the last may be thereby endangered. The cohesion of a great people may be quickly formed; time alone can confirm it. The triumphs of the field of battle may be more brilliant and alluring than those in the sphere of constructive politics. If pursued for their own sake, there is no quicker road to national degradation, and no surer symptom of latent decay. No candid observer professes to see in the Prussian terms, lately reported, any evidence of a desire to conclude the war. They were unnecessarily severe, and as such were made but to be rejected. Meanwhile, therefore, Germany has assumed the responsibility of a destructive and unnatural contest, whose dire results no man living will survive to see effaced. It would be rash to assume that King WILLIAM and his advisers will much longer retain their attitude of uncompromising hostility, but it is greatly to be deplored that they should have ever taken it up.

Brooklyn Postal Affairs.

One of the greatest conveniences and necessities of a large city is a well-organized and efficient system for the receipt and delivery of letters. The post should be the surest and quickest method of communicating with friends and acquaintances. A business letter, or one of invitation to an afternoon or evening entertainment, dropped into a post-office box in the morning, should be sure of producing an answer before night if the person addressed were prompt in replying. Many of the larger cities of Europe enjoy this privilege by means of their admirable postal systems, but in this country we are only beginning to give the subject the attention it deserves. The mail service in this City, although it is now far in advance of what it was a few years ago, is not what it should be for a place of such commercial importance as a metropolis, embracing as it does within its limits a million of inhabitants. The multiplication of stations and lamp-post boxes for the receipt of letters, and the number of carrier routes which have been established, have added greatly to our local means of communication, and in the future, when the Post-office in the Park is finished, still further facilities may be expected. It will then be possible to send letters from one part of the City to another with an expectation of an answer the same day. This is now occasionally the case, and it is hoped one day will become the rule.

While in New-York, therefore, the mails are reasonably well served, it is not so with Brooklyn. There the delays of the post are notorious. If a letter is dropped into the Post-office there, it will take fully a day longer to get it to its destination than if it had started from New-York. For this reason, business men always avoid putting their letters in the Brooklyn office if they can conveniently use that of New-York, while every morning thousands of letters are mailed in the City of Brooklyn which have been written by Brooklyn folks, and have been brought over here by their husbands or friends, as by this means they will be received so much the earlier by the persons addressed.

Although it is several years since Williamsburg and Greenpoint were made a part of the City of Brooklyn, retaining, however, the distinctive style of the Eastern District, a letter now sent from one part of that city to another, if located in different districts, requires a three cent stamp. This is because there are Post-offices at each of these three points, instead of one general and central office. In consequence of this arrangement, a letter from the Western to the Eastern District must go to New-York for distribution, even if the writer live on one side of the street forming the dividing line between the districts, and the person addressed on the other directly opposite. The consolidation of these three districts into one is both desirable and necessary, the only objection that has been urged against it being that there will by this means be two offices less to be distributed among the faithful. In view, however, of the necessities of a city which is the third in the Union in population, such a pretext is most frivolous and unworthy of consideration. Not only would such consolidation be a great convenience to the citizens of Brooklyn, but it would also be a source of additional revenue to the Government, for the public would be sure to make much greater use of the mail as a means of communication as soon as it was known to be prompt and reliable. Another objection to the present arrangement of post-offices in Brooklyn is that hundreds of letters are now sent every day to the Eastern District which should go to the Western, and to the Western which belong to the Eastern, but on which the writer has omitted to mark E. D. Many complaints are also made as to the insecurity as well as the tardiness and irregularity of the Brooklyn mails, but this matter has already been investigated by the proper officials, and the offenders, when detected, will be speedily brought to justice. It, as has been hinted, persons are still retained in the Brooklyn Post-office who have been detected in unlawfully opening the mail, anyone who is cognizant of these facts and can prove them before a jury, becomes an accomplice in this crime if he persist in withholding his proofs from the officers of justice. The postal offices of Brooklyn are sadly in need of reformation, but we are unwilling to believe that Postmaster BOOTH or any of his assistants are desirous of shielding or defending any person in their office who can be proved to have tampered with the mail. If all the post-offices in Kings County were, as they should be, branches of a central office in Brooklyn, it would not be a difficult matter to trace out and remedy any of the acknowledged defects in the postal arrangements of that locality.

Heroines of the Horsewhip.

Since the horsewhipping exploit of Miss LYDIA THOMPSON and her fair associates in Chicago, an unusual degree of belligerency has developed itself among their sisters throughout the land. Apparently, some such example was the one thing needed to show them with what impunity the tyrant might be attacked with his own weapons, and so to urge them to a long-premeditated onset. To one who reads the newspapers it really seems as if the women of the country, animated by a common impulse, had all at once procured horsewhips, and were going about like roaring lionesses seeking whom they might chastise. It is no exaggeration to say that for some time past almost every day has brought its own record of a flogging episode, in which one or more women were the actors and some unhappy man the passive victim. To be sure, the horse-whipping is in most cases rather symbolic than real. It usually consists of two or three light cuts across the head and shoulders of the masculine victim, a loud scream, and then a sudden faint or a precipitous flight. But sometimes the castigation attains an unpleasant degree of reality, as in a case of recent occurrence in Baltimore, where, we are told, four young women, sisters, waylaid a young man whose expressed opinion they concluded to have done them injustice, and gave him an unmerciful besting.

Usually, too, the attack meets no resistance. The man assailed is so bewildered by its unexpectedness, and so bound by traditional sentiments of gallantry for the sex, that he sometimes forgets to defend himself, and rarely, indeed, attempts retaliation. But there is at least one man in New-Orleans who is not fettered by chivalric scruples. When a lady of that city lately essayed to horsewhip him, for some dire offense, he expressed his disapproval of the proceeding by breaking her head with a hammer. Instances of such discourtesy are fortunately rare. Most men when so attacked feel like the late Lord DERBY's "navvy," who, when remonstrated with for permitting his little wife to beat him, replied, with a good-humored grin, "Why not? since it amuses her, and doesn't hurt me." Nevertheless, in the brutality of the New-Orleans ogre there is a germ of good. If these horsewhipping heroines find that there is danger of such energetic reprisal, they may be induced to curb their wild career. And that is a result much to be wished. A woman unsexed is not a pleasing object, and we trust we shall soon be able to chronicle the abandonment of this eccentricity. Sorosis is not always a discreet Mentor, but it is, at least, a safer and more dignified ally than the Furies.

What has become of the Citizens' Association?

It is one of the mysterious disappearances of the age. We know where some of its former leading spirits are, but surely the Association itself is not defunct by the pretense that the government of New-York is undergoing a process of purification? Did the last local election look much like a change for the better? It is well known that about twenty thousand fraudulent votes were cast on the Democratic side in May. Is that the sort of improvement Mr. PETER COOPER anticipated? When a bona fide registry law does not the Association openly monitor

It is stated that Mr. TWEED's intimate friends were accommodated at the Osborn House, Rockaway, during the time the Democratic managerie was on exhibition there last week. Mr. TWEED provided free passes over the Erie Road for many of them. They celebrated the occasion by "pillaging and pilfering" to the extent of fifteen thousand dollars, and this sum Mr. TWEED had to refund before the proprietor of the house consented to close his account. Such is the story as we find it in a contemporary. Fifteen thousand dollars is not much to Mr. TWEED, but we should like to know Mr. SAMUEL TILDEN's private opinion of the little exploit thus described? We naturally look to the one respectable man at the front for some explanation on these subjects. When Mr. TILDEN allows himself to be dragged through such a mess, he must expect some of the dirt to cling to his shirt. We know that he is an honest man himself—but was an honest man ever before associated with such a set of scamps?

The Union League Club will to-night take into consideration the best means of paying respect to the memory of Admiral FARRAGUT. That our great sailor has not yet had suitable tributes paid to his merits may be the result of accident rather than of design. The Mayor of this City is, we believe, sincerely endeavoring to make the approaching interment of the gallant Admiral's remains a worthy opportunity for the public to testify its respect for one who reflected undying honor on the noble profession to which he belonged. But the Republicans ought not to be inactive. The Union League Club will find the public in full sympathy with it in any course which it recommends.

"There are no warring factions, no clashing interests," said Gov. HOFFMAN, the other day, in the Democratic Party. He ought to have said that no warring factions were allowed to express their opinions. They are sent to Cayenne, or Siberia, or treated as Count BISMARCK is treating the free Press of Germany. Mr. CLINTON's speech last night gives a different idea of Democratic unity. We have no wish to ask disagreeable questions, but how does the World like that speech? Why doesn't Mr. TWEED confine Mr. CLINTON in some dungeon? He has done stranger things than that in his time.

Negotiators who have had dealings with Count BISMARCK seem to develop a singular aptitude for giving the lie to the Prussian diplomatist. In the secret treaty altercation, many people who took little trouble to hear both sides, jumped to the conclusion that BENEDETTI, being a Greek in the service of NAPOLEON III., was probably the greatest liar of the two. Whether the German Chancellor will come out equally well in his wordy war with the French Provisional Government, who announced that he had demanded from them the possession of Mont Valerien as one of the bases of peace, remains to be seen. The names of three credible Frenchmen against one German of a veracity not perfectly unimpeachable, places the dispute in rather a bad light for BISMARCK.

"The Empire is peace"—certainly it isn't war," was a bitter epigram made at Fortbach. The entire course of the contest has shown that the demoralization incident to personal government has been nowhere so fatally apparent as in the ranks of the army. The recreant Zouaves who began the panic at Meudon have fallen victims as much to the system under which they were reared as to their own cowardice. The French soldiers were the mainstay of the dynasty, and they knew it. An overweening confidence, begotten of victories against inferior foes, and an undue amount of national and official adulation, relaxed the bonds of discipline which cannot be too soon tightened, even at the cost of shooting a few more of the soldiers of Athos.

Nothing can be more groundless than any degree of apprehension about the possible importation of yellow fever into our midst. Recent experience has shown that if the Health Officer of this port is likely to err at all it is on the side of undue caution. In the case of ships arriving with the taint of this dreadful scourge, everybody will, however, sustain Dr. CARMOCHAN in thinking that no precaution can be too minute. The measures that are being taken are of the most rigid description, and the public may safely keep their minds easy about infection that does not get beyond the Lower Bay.

It is necessary to remind many correspondents that we cannot publish their letters unless they communicate to us, in confidence, their names and addresses. In no instance is there the least risk that the name of any correspondent will be made public, but we require it to be sent to us privately as a guarantee of good faith. Several writers have addressed us with reference to the "Ring" and its lotteries, but we are obliged to omit their letters in consequence of their neglect of this necessary and reasonable rule.

The Sunbian Festival—Grand Procession at Jones' Wood.

The second day's festivities of the Sunbians at Jones' Wood, yesterday, brought together there an immense gathering. It is estimated that over 20,000 persons visited the grounds during the day.

The main feature of the entertainment was the procession in the afternoon. It was headed by King William, mounted, and in full uniform, represented by Mr. NESTELL; the Crown Prince, Mr. WOLBERT, on his right, and Prince Frederick Charles (Mr. BILLIGARD) on his left. Then followed Gen. Moltke (Mr. CHILIUS,) Bismarck (Mr. MEYER,) and the general staff, escorted by a squadron of Prussian Hussars. Then followed a division of characters in the costumes of the peasantry of the various sections of Germany. In the third division followed a carriage drawn by eight gray horses, decorated with the ancient national colors of Germany—black, red and gold. On this carriage a representation of the Germania was stationed in the person of Mlle. M. WIESNER, waving the national flag, and surrounded by a group representing the various sections of old Germany—Bavaria, Borussia, Hammonia, Rhenania, Saxonia, &c. The rear was followed by carriages occupied by young girls in various fancy costumes, representing the nationalities of fatherland, and a number of carriages. The festivities were continued until a late hour.

What a Question.

From the Brooklyn Union.

The New-York TIMES puts a question this morning which ought to make every honest New-Yorker blush who reads it. "Is Gov. HOFFMAN an honest man?" inquires the TIMES, and proceeds to prove that he is not an honest Governor, whatever he may be in other offices. The impeachment of the Governor by the TIMES will be sustained by very few of the leading men in the country; and it is difficult to conceive of any intelligent merchant, banker or railroad director, who, comprehending the motive of Gov. HOFFMAN in signing the infamous Erie bill, whereby the stockholders of the Erie Railroad were most shamefully defrauded for the benefit of TWEED, FISK & CO. and a decree of damage inflicted upon American credit of incalculable extent, can give a vote to aid the re-election of so unfaithful a public servant. If Gov. HOFFMAN should be re-elected it will be simply proclaiming to all the world that the people of this State are willing to be recognized as approving the infamous acts of FISK, TWEED, GOULD, HOFFMAN & Co. The City of New-York is responsible for TWEED, but the whole State is to be made responsible for, and partners generally with TWEED, FISK & Co., by the re-election of HOFFMAN, their pliant and willing tool. How can the Vanderbilts, the Schells, the Tildens, the Minturns, and the Marshalls, and other business men of New-York, who so thoroughly know the character of the corruptionists now who control the actions of Gov. HOFFMAN, permit the continuance of the influence of their acts upon the business of New-York and the country, give their aid to the election of such a Governor? A man may be known by the company he keeps, and, in the case of Gov. HOFFMAN, the most has proved himself worthy of his associates. If he elected he will be the tool which he has rendered subservient to FISK, Jr., and his associates. It will be because the great railroad managers and owners of New-York do not see fit to prevent it. New schemes of plunder have been projected, and the re-election of HOFFMAN will virtually place the State in the hands of FISK, Jr., and TWEED.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

MME. SEEBACH AS MARY STUART.

Mme. SEEBACH delighted her audience last night as Mary Stuart. Her triumph in the character was genuine, complete, and eminently deserved. We were well pleased with her Margaret. None could fail to recognize in that impersonation the work of a fine artist. But in Mary Stuart Mme. SEEBACH compels absolute admiration. The comparisons that some have deprecated need not be instituted here. The performance of last night may challenge issues with that of any living artist. Such was the opinion, not of critics alone, but of the public at large. There is no mistaking the hearty outburst of satisfaction, no confounding it with the reluctant applause that springs from a sense of duty, from courteous gallantry to a lady and a stranger, or is given simply because expected. From first to last Mme. SEEBACH's Mary Stuart may justly be called an effort of real genius; and at the end of the third act it fairly wrought the audience into enthusiasm.

SCHILLER wrote "Mary Stuart" long before Mr. FROUDE attacked or Mr. JOHN HOSACK defended the hapless Scottish Queen; long before Prof. ATTOUN or Mr. SWINTON had told in stirring lyrics the story of her favorites and her persecutors; and long before so much was known of the famous silver casket letters, as it has been given to a more modern time to discover. In brief, all these are affairs of the last ten years, while the play of the German dramatist has attained the ripe age of three score and ten. That it still keeps the stage no less than the closet is an ordinary proof of excellence. But, perhaps, a stronger reason for its continued popularity lies in SCHILLER's method of treatment. There are two ways of dealing theatrically with the figure of MARY. One is to follow what was once generally accepted history, and so make her as dark as PARIS, KNOX or ELIZABETH herself would have painted her. The other is to follow the stronger record which is written in the hearts of the better portion of mankind and to paint her as a lovely and much persecuted woman, a creature in truth more sinned against than sinning. SCHILLER has anticipated in his portrait the discoveries of our later scholars, and justified such handling by making his heroine live down to the period of her vindication. Neither the playwright nor her serious apologists show MARY to be spotless. But they certainly make her something more—and less—than the human fiction, the cross between MESSALINA and CLEOPATRA, the dissembling zealot, and the shameless wanton that it has suited expediency and prejudice to hand her down to posterity. The actress of last evening enters into the more generous view with all the warmth and depth of a large womanly nature, and with all the energy and passion of a thorough artist.

Mme. SEEBACH's Mary Stuart, we may safely declare, is an elaborate and noble study. The identification, to begin with, is far more plausible on physical grounds than the lady's picture of Margaret. In the last scenes of Faust, indeed, Mme. SEEBACH rises to grandeur; but she is not able in the first scenes to descend to a veritable simplicity. A grave consequence of this is that the imperfect realization of the beginning of the play has to be overcome—or the memory of it effaced—by extraordinary efforts at the close. In Mary Stuart there is no such difficulty. The assumption is harmonious and coherent throughout. It is conceivable that such a woman as we see might indeed have been Mary Stuart. Then there is no incredulity lurking in the spectator's mind, such as in GOETHE's play attaches to Faust's lightning passion and Margaret's tender folly. Majesty, suture, intellectual subtlety, the habit of sequetry, and the power of fascination, all belong to Mary Stuart, and all lie within Mme. SEEBACH's ability to simulate. There are no touches of child-like ingenuousness called for in Mary, the imperfect or over-strained representation of which may shake faith in the truthfulness of the whole drawing. All is clearly and unmistakably commanded by the artist's means. Hence the result is complete and harmonious. The grand dialogue at the end of the third act obtains, in the capable hands to which, at the Fourteenth-street Theatre, it is intrusted, all the fire of reality. The feminine recrimination, the outraged dignity, the queenly scorn, the magnificent disregard of consequences in the torrent of execration which finds climax on the horrid word, "Bastard!" hurled at Elizabeth, were each and all truly superb, and merited the cheers that followed—which were of a kind rarely heard in a New-York theatre.

The capital support of Mlle. VANNITA, who made her first appearance here as the English Queen, did much to assure this happy result. Mlle. VANNITA is an excellent actress. She has on her side youth, strength, fervor and considerable dignity of bearing. Her reception was flattering, and her subsequent efforts showed that it did not surpass her deserts. As the audience here betters its acquaintance with Mlle. VANNITA, she will gain over it an enviable power. There are few artists in our memory who could project into the difficult part of Elizabeth a happier blending of the hauteur and exploit-rance, the cruelty and remorse, the womanly tenderness and ire, so to say, epicene opposition that are proper to the character.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The attendance at the Exchange yesterday (Sept. 27) was limited. But one sale was made, and that was under the direction of Messrs. Bell & McGuire. The transaction was a legal one in foreclosure, by order of the Supreme Court, D. P. Ingraham, Jr., referee. The property sold consisted of a three-story and basement brick house, together with a lot 20.10x 99.9, located on the north side of Twenty-fifth-street, 250 feet 10 inches east of Fourth-avenue, started at $30. The premises were struck off to W. H. Headley for $37,100. The price was good, for the house is an old one, and in poor repair. The sale of twelve lots, situated, respectively, at 98 One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street, between Seventh and Eighth-avenues, fronting each other in the rear, was postponed until Oct. 5. The transaction was noticed for yesterday, and some discussion was expressed at the delay. The sale advertised to take place by A. J. Bleecker, Son & Co., of lots on One Hundred and Nineteenth-street, and lots on Avenue A, was also postponed, and to a day not named. Today will be a quiet one at the Exchange, as, from present indications, no sales will be made.

Tomorrow Duncan, Kennedy & Co. will dispose of the Rustmore property at Mamaroneck, in Westchester County, the sale taking place on the ground at 1 P. M. Persons desiring to be present can take the 10 A. M. train from the depot of the New-Haven Railroad. Also, by the depot corner of Twenty-seventh-street and Fourth-avenue. The transaction has been extensively noticed, and the auction, from the known value of the property involved, should be largely attended. Two additional sales of suburban property are also announced for to-morrow, one by Messrs. Isaacs, Lee & Co., on the premises, at 12 o'clock M., by Wiman, Sands & Garretson, No. 37 Cedar-street, from which firm maps and full particulars can be obtained, and the other, by J. H. Mitchell, an assignee's sale of lots at Englewood, in Bergen County, N. J. The last named property offered comprises some twenty large villa plots, elegantly located. The sale will begin at 10 o'clock A. M.

FINANCIAL.

8 per Cent. Interest
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
Principal and Interest Payable in Gold.

The First Mortgage Eight Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY are for sale by the undersigned. Price, 97½ and interest. The amount of bonds issued is $1,200,000 on 211 miles of road, of which 80 miles are completed, and the grading of the balance finished, while the iron and materials are on the track to complete it.
This road, completed and about being finished, together with rolling stock, lands, property of every description, and franchises, is mortgaged to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company in trust for the security of these bonds. This property has a value more than double the amount of this mortgage. The net earnings of the Company are constantly on the increase, and are in excess of the amount required to pay the interest on these bonds. The payment of the interest and principal is therefore fully secured. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Interest payable semi-annually in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main. We, subscribingly, recommend these, and will furnish maps and pamphlets upon application.

THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
The South and North Alabama Railroad Company,
Guaranteed by the State of Alabama in AMERICAN GOLD, and secured by First Mortgage of $6,000 a Mile on the Road, Equipments and Franchises, which are assigned by Messrs. EVARTS, SOUTHMAYD & CHOATE, of New-York, upon the said trust deed. The bonds are issued only as the road is finished, and only to the extent of $6,000 a mile. The road is now open for business, and has had on the same a thorough equipment and is earning over the interest on the bonds. The bonds are issued in denominations of $1,000 and $500, and are payable in 1900.
Pamphlets, containing copies of the Company's charter and of the mortgage to Union Trust Company, &c., furnished upon application.
The above bonds are offered for sale at par, having marketable value, taken in exchange on favorable terms.
Subscriptions will be received at the office of the Company, No. 52 Wall-st., New-York, where the bonds will be countersigned and delivered.
These are the cheapest Bonds in this market, as the income from the works will be largely in excess of the amount required.
There remains only a small portion of the Loan unsold, and as the proceeds go into the hands of an interested party, any such person desiring to secure a good investment will find these bonds an inducement. OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

BASE-BALL.

The White Stockings Again Victorious—Signal Defeat of the New Champions.

The White Stockings nine of the Chicago Club may now exclaim, with the Roman General, Veni, Vidi, Vici, for the result of their second tour East has been a series of signal victories over the strongest nines of New-York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. The Chicago nine arrived in town last week, and opened play with the Eckford Club, winning easily by a score of 29 to 8. Their play in this match did not warrant any great expectations in regard to their other games; but their noteworthy victory over the Atlantics by a score of 9 to 4, followed up, as it was, with their grand triumph in Philadelphia over the Athletics, their umpire and their crowd, by a score of 11 to 11, led to quite an unusual degree of interest being taken in the contest of yesterday, with the new champion nine of the Mutual Club, and consequently there was an immense assemblage of spectators gathered on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, fully 8,000 people paying the half dollar admission fee on the occasion, while almost as many were congregated outside the inclosure. The first game of the series between the first Chicago nine and the Mutuals resulted in a score of 22 to 4 in favor of the New-Yorkers, and on the occasion of the second game in Chicago the Mutuals won by a score of 9 to 0. The Chicago nine after this signal defeat was "reconstructed," CRAVER being expelled from the Club for alleged dishonorable conduct, and DUFFY, of the Richards, substituted. This in no way affected victory beaming to perch upon the Chicago banner, and the climax of success was reached when they defeated the famous Red Stockings by a score of 10 to 8. Being desirous of redeeming the defeat previously sustained in this City and Philadelphia, they came on last week once more to try conclusions with their victors, and also with the intention of taking home the coveted whip pennant, if such a feat were possible of accomplishment. With this object in view they played the three crack clubs of the East—Atlantics, Athletics and Mutuals, and the result has been a degree of success which has crowned the career of the Red Stockings through our Eastern cities in 1869. The contest of yesterday was the culminating point, and should they be fortunate enough to defeat the Mutual Club on the occasion of the "return game at Chicago—to be played in a week or so—the whip pennant, the emblem of the championship, will then fly from the Chicago flag-staff at Dexter Park.

The game of yesterday was not what was expected, neither nine doing themselves justice, the Mutuals, especially, making a very poor display at the bat and in the field in fact, the poorest since their defeat by the Athletics. Had they supported their pitcher as they did last Thursday, the Chicagos would have sustained defeat. Of course the result will set Chicago wild. If they had a procession to greet the gents of the White Hose after their victory in Cincinnati, the city ought to "turn out en masse to welcome them from these "Sedan triumphs" in the East. Below we give the full score of the match, which gives all further particulars:

THE TURF.

Fleetwood Park Trotting.

Two races were announced to come off at Fleetwood Park, yesterday afternoon, but as all the horses engaged in them were unknown to fame, they attracted little attention, and only a small attendance. The first race was a match for $500, mile heats, best three in five, in harness, between J. O'NEIL's bay mare Belle, and THOMAS SCOTT's bay gelding, Slippery Jack, the mare being the favorite in the betting at $60 to $35. She showed that the confidence of her backers was not misplaced, for after losing the first heat, she won the next three heats and race very handily. Time—3:00, 2:34, 2:38, 2:39.

The second trot was for a competition of ten mile heats, best three in five, in harness, between the following six horses: M. HEWETT's Bently, S. DORENUS' Buckeye, F. LOWNDES' Butcher Girl, J. HAYMAN's Timothy, J. GIBSON's Lumber Boy, and W. R. HARRISON's Tuptoes. The latter was the favorite before the race commenced, selling for $70 to $40, but at one time had the call, for $40; and the field to Tuptoes won the race and money in three straight heats. Time—3:01, 2:34, 2:33.

Trotting at Mystic Park, Medford, Mass.—Two Capital Races—Belle of Toronto and Colonel Russell the Leading Horses.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Mystic Park trots today, were well attended. The first trot was for horses that had never beaten 2:40, for a divided purse of $500 between the three best horses. There were eight entries: Lady Maxeen, by E. L. NORCROSS; Andy Johnson, by THOMAS FURLONG; Young Webster, by H. H. ROGERS; Diamond, by W. H. WOODBURY; Richmond Boy, by A. W. WORCESTER; Belle of Toronto, by GEO. P. CARPENTER; Fanny Lambert, by JAMES DUGRET; and Logan, by E. MYRRS. Fanny Lambert was the favorite in the pool. Three heats were trotted, all of which were won by the Belle of Toronto. The Richmond Boy led off on the first and third, keeping his place to the quarter-pole, when Belle invariably passed to win. Logan came in second on the first heat and third in the others, taking second money. Diamond was fifth in the first heat, second in second heat and fourth in the last, taking third money. Andy Johnson was distanced in the last heat. Fanny Lambert was fourth, sixth and seventh in the respective heats. Time—2:36¼, 2:38, and 2:39.

The second race was for horses that had never beaten 2:30, for a divided purse of $1,500. There were eight entries: McClellan, by A. W. WORCESTER; Shepard Knapp, by J. J. BOWEN; Colonel Russell, by W. H. DOANE; Lady Augusta, by J. L. DOTY; Mary, by M. MILLER; Prince, by M. RODEN; N. B. Palmer, by M. CARROLL; Modoc, by DAN. MACE. Colonel Russell was the favorite in the pool, but Mary won the first heat apparently with ease, Russell being fourth and Prince second. McClellan led to the quarter on the second heat, followed by Prince and Russell. The latter took the lead at the half-mile, Prince second, and Palmer third, in which order the heat finished. Russell led through the third heat, Prince being second, and Mary third. The fourth heat was also won by Russell, Mary being second, and Modoc third. Mc Clellan and Lady Augusta were drawn after the third heat. Russell, Mary and Prince took the money. Time—2:29½, 2:27¼, 2:27¼, 2:30¾.

The races will be continued on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Newmarket Races in England.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—At the Newmarket races today the Great Eastern handicap sweepstakes was won by Lulu, beating Skilling, second, and Nice, third.

Birthday Celebration at the Girls' Lodging-House.

A reunion of a very pleasant nature took place last night at the Girls' Lodging-House, No. 128 Bleecker-street, the occasion being the celebration of the seventy-fifth birthday of Mr. E. J. HOWLAND, a much-esteemed citizen, and a gentleman to whose benevolent endeavor the above institution, in a great measure, owes its existence. Mr. W. A. BOOTH, President of the Children's Aid Society, occupied the chair. Beside him sat the venerable guest of the evening, surrounded by a number of prominent citizens, including Judge KIRKLAND, Messrs. HOWARD POTTER, C. L. BRACE, GEORGE CABOT WARD, and others. The Chairman intimated that the friends and inmates of the Girls' Home had assembled to testify their respect and esteem for Mr. HOWLAND by a joyful celebration of his seventy-fifth birthday. Their venerable friend was one of those who believed that no difference in social position ought to render one indifferent to the interests of the humblest fellow-creature, and many years of his long life had been consecrated to the social elevation and moral reformation of the friendless and the poor. For more than a quarter of a century his name had been associated with the prominent benevolent enterprises of the City. It was he, associated with Mr. C. L. BRACE, who first suggested the system of boys' meetings, which for eighteen years have exerted such a restraining influence upon the homeless youths of the City. Much of his time and means had been devoted to the institution in which they assembled, and it was opened never a year ago with one ledger, taken from a Station-house, covered with rags and filth, no less than 9,000 homeless girls had been sheltered from the whelming flood of temptation that wrecked the virtue of so many frail wanderers in this great City.

Addresses were also delivered by Mr. CABOT WARD, Judge KIRKLAND and Mr. BRACE, who, in an able speech, recounted some of the great moral changes that had taken place during the lifetime of their aged friend. Mr. HOWLAND, he said, had been a trustee of the Children's Aid Society since its organization eighteen years ago, and had been one of his most devoted colaborers. Although advanced in years, his mind and heart still retained the freshness and vigor of youth. His name was an evergreen in the memory of thousands, and when his work on earth was finished, he felt sure he should waft him to the other shore. At the close of the proceedings, Mr. HOWLAND was surrounded by a choir of little girls, bearing floral wreaths, and chanting a sweet refrain, one of whom presented him, in the name of the inmates, with a beautiful basket of flowers. Mr. HOWLAND feelingly addressed his young friends, and related many incidents of his valuable life. The rooms were beautifully ornamented with flowers, flags and devices, a number of songs and choruses were sung, and the girls were treated to a bountiful supply of cake and fruit. The arrangements reflected much credit upon Mrs. THORP, the excellent matron of the home.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

Inspector MACKEY closed his annual inspection of the Fire Department yesterday. The Seventh Battalion, composed of the companies doing duty in Harlem and the upper portion of the island, on the west side, were reviewed and inspected in Mount Morris-square. A full report of the condition of the Department will soon be made by Inspector MACKEY.

A large meeting of the supporters of the Southern Tribune Monument Ball took place yesterday afternoon, in Tammany Hall. Among those present were Gov. THROCKMORTON, of Texas, and Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania; Gen. Hunter, Cols. S. W. Mortandt and J. B. Bowman, of Kentucky; Gen. Banks, of Massachusetts; Col. Shirrell, of Alabama; Gen. Rice, of Iowa; Gen. Small, of Maine, and Judge Dent, Gov. THROCKMORTON, who was received with cheers, spoke of the value of the route and the productiveness of the country through which it is intended that it shall run. Senator CAMERON, of Philadelphia, said he listened with great pleasure to the remarks of Gov. THROCKMORTON, and entirely coincided with his views of the great benefits to be derived from this work. The meeting then adjourned.

The Gold Exchange held a special meeting yesterday afternoon, considered amendments to the by-laws, and resolved to adjourn over Friday, in order to give members an opportunity to attend the Farragut obsequies. The only announcement of any interest was one imposing a penalty of ¼ of one per cent for a refusal or neglect to deliver loaned gold, either through the Clearing-house or Re-Clearing-house. As high as 5-64ths of one per cent was bid for the use of gold yesterday in the Gold Exchange—equal to about fifty per cents. per annum.

The third of the series of exhibitions in the Horticultural Department of the American Institute Fair will take place today. In the evening, Prof. HARRIS will send off one of his immense fire balloons. There will also be a grand promenade concert in the evening, with fine orchestral music.
